

Best Books of 2013

Adrian Kosmaczewski

2014-04-06

It is that time of the year again, just like in 2012, 2011, 2010, 2009, 2008 and 2007.

Hoping that you are going to notice that the “non technical” section is taking precedence over the “technical” section, these are the books I’ve read and written in 2013 (in no particular order):

Non-technical

- Estados del Alma, the first poetry book published by my sister and lifetime friend Laura Fährdrich.
- Man and his Symbols by Carl G. Jung.
- Norwegian Wood by Haruki Murakami.
- Clases de Literatura by Julio Cortázar.
- Octaedro by Julio Cortázar.
- Masters of Doom by David Kushner.

Technical

- iOS Storyboards by Daniel Steinberg.
- Presentations in Action by Jerry Weissman.
- Async JavaScript by Trevor Burnham.
- Essential iOS Build and Release by Ron Roche.
- The Past, Present, and Future of JavaScript by Axel Rauschmayer.
- The C++ Programming Language, 4th edition by Bjarne Stroustrup.
- A Tour of C++ by Bjarne Stroustrup.
- Android Cookbook by Ian F. Darwin.

Mine

- Sencha Touch 2 Up and Running by yours truly.