

Slides, slides, slides

Adrian Kosmaczewski

2009-09-10

I've been doing presentations for a while now, so I decided to open a SlideShare account to publish all the slides I've created over the past 5 years. SlideShare has a great Flash-based viewer that you can embed in web pages, so I'll be using it a lot now. Check out my presentations, feel free to download them and also to use them if you find the contents useful for you (they are distributed with Creative Commons licenses).

Having said that, I'm also announcing that the slides (and sample application) of yesterday's JAIO geek night presentation in Zürich are also available in the Projects section of this blog, and here goes the SlideShare player with those slides:

iPhone App Development Tips & Tricks \(Zürich\)

View more documents from Adrian Kosmaczewski.