A new template¹ on our preferred blogging platform², a couple of tweaks here and there – one of the advantages of working on an open-source platform – and a thriving business landscape. Things are looking better than ever.

After only a few months of operation, akosma software is already moving towards its objective: to become a leading provider of cross-platform, multilingual software solutions, recognized on a global level.

Right now, akosma software is collaborating in some major projects, including the iPhone application for a major european bank, and another for an important watch brand. Coupled with other ongoing projects, like a book – more on this soon – and some upcoming presentations in conferences next year. Oh, and don't forget the iPhone development course for beginners³ in Zürich on December 9th!

This space will feature more and more information. Stay tuned! The RSS feed⁴ is yours to subscribe to. And as always, feel free to leave your comments below; we'd love to hear from you.
